AN APPALLING EXHIBIT.

[From the Syracuse Standard.]

The New York Tribune has taken pains to compile the Southern claims already presented into a table and the result is perfectly appalling. But large and frightful as the list is, it contains no application for aid to the Southern railroads. These schemes are executed to stand on their own merits, or rather on the persistent efforts of their originators and advocates. Tom Scott is pushing his schemes on his personal responsibility, and is reported to be elated at the prospect. If he is successful the donations will swell the drafts upon the public treasury to a sum far larger than the public debt, and carry the Government down to financial ruin. With the Democracy in full power, there would be no possible chance of resisting the payments of a good share of the claims already granted, and others that are still to come. The alliance between the rebels and the Democrats is so complete that they must stand or fall together, and however both Northern Democrats might be to allow these claims, they must do so, or run the risk of offending their rebel adherents, and losing their support in time of need. The only salvation to the country is in the continued success of the Republican party and the predominance of the patriotic element of the country in the councils of the Nation.

TRUE REPUBLICANISM.

[From the Albany Journal.]

The "true, living Republicanism which we all so ache to hear" means peace and good will to the South, but not the abandonment of Republican rights. It means conciliation for Confederates who will show contrition in return, but not their preference over good Republicans. It means honest and consistent efforts to elevate the public service according to intelligent, practical and effective methods. It means active and resolute warfare against that combination of Southern claimants and Northern inflationists which threatens the future of our country. In a word, it means the best inspirations of the patriotic masses of the land organized and vitalized in positive action. That is the true Republicanism of the times.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE

Under the law passed in 1877 authorizing the payment of a bounty of one cent per pound to any company establishing the manufacture of beet root sugar in this State, the Governor and Council have been listening to the proposals of a Mr. Genert, who offers to start a factory, and at the recent session the following order was passed:

IN COUNCIL, March 19, 1878.

ORDERED, That the proposition of Ernest Th. Geunert is hereby accepted, so far as it conforms to the provisions of the "Act to encourage the introduction of the manufacture of Beet Sugar," approved February 7, A. D. 1877, and upon condition that a factory in running order, for the manufacture of beet sugar, be established in this State within the year 1878, and that the Attorney General is hereby instructed to draft a contract for execution, between said Genert and the said associates or assignees, and the Governor and Council, in accordance with the terms of said act, and with the above conditions. Said contract to be of no force or virtue unless said factory is established in 1878.

IN COUNCIL, March 19, 1878.

Read and passed by the Council, and by the Governor approved.

S. J. CHADBOURNE,
Secretary of State.

The Tribune says of Tuesday's debate in the Senate on the timber question, that it "did not result in any vote, but it developed the existence of a strong resentment on the part of Eastern as well as Western Senators against the oppressive policy of Secretary Schurz. The amendment of the Appropriations Committee to the House bill practically prohibits the collection of any charge for wood or timber cut on public lands in the Territories, where the lands have not been surveyed and offered for sale, and the wood is for the actual use of the settler, and not for export. Mr. Blaine put the case in a nutshell when he said that under this amendment the timber thief would be prosecuted and the settler would be protected. Mr. Eustis gave the Southern view of the operations of the Interior Department, showing that in Louisiana seizures were made on imperfect papers, owners of property were deprived of it within twenty-four hours, and, in one case, timber had been seized which was cut from land owned by the so-called colleader for twenty years back. The amendment embodies, as Mr. Blaine proved, the unbroken policy of the Government from the time of its foundation, and there is every indication that the Senate will rebuke Secretary Schurz by adopting it."

The N. Y. Herald's Washington correspondent says: "Those who wish the Secretary of the Treasury to distribute the silver dollar through the country and exchange them for greenbacks at the national depositories forget that this would be a partial resumption of specie payments. The law fixes the 1st of January next as the period for resumption. When that time comes, unless the law is repealed, the Secretary will be obliged to pay out specie for greenbacks on demand, and then the wishes of these persons will be satisfied, but it is a curious evidence of the confusion which prevails in people's minds about these questions that many of the very men who want him now, at once and when the coinage of dollars has hardly begun, to distribute them over the country and exchange them for greenbacks in the same breath demand the repeal of the resumption act."

The Journal has special pleas for the policy on the ground that it has increased the security of the rights of the people in the South, while the other organ, the Advertiser, prints a report of a Mississippi legislative committee, deploring the alarming increase of lawlessness, murder and outrage in that State. When doctors disagree, and rogues fall out, something must happen. But this disagreement shows nothing, since to-morrow the Advertiser may reprint the Journal's laudation of the policy and the Journal may reprint the Advertiser's bloody-shirt report from the South. The policy has got to be propped up in spite of facts.—Boston Traveller.

The Indianapolis Journal remarks: "The new Postmaster at Petersburg, Va., is an active Democrat, and is said to have been the bitterest rebel in the place. Considering that the district is Republican and Petersburg the largest town in it, it is a matter of some surprise that a Republican could not have been found capable of filling the position."

A NEW WONDER.

The most wonderful of recent inventions is the Phonograph of Prof. T. A. Edison, of New Jersey, which is really an apparatus that records what is said to it, and subsequently repeats with accuracy every word and sound. The following plain description of the wonderful little piece of mechanism is worth reproducing:

A rubber mouthpiece inclosed a thin diaphragm of zerotype metal, which was easily jarred by the voice, causing a steel needle underneath to vibrate in unison. Around a grooved iron cylinder was wrapped a sheet of tinfoil, and the mouthpiece adjusted so that the needle point rested lightly upon the foil. The operator talks into the mouthpiece and turns the cylinder at the same time, and the needle travels in the grooves around the tinfoil, making indentations in its surface at every vibration caused by the voice. When the entire surface has been traversed the mouthpiece is readjusted to the starting point, and as the crank is turned the needle springs from hole to hole in the tinfoil, causing the diaphragm to vibrate as it did when originally jarred by the voice. As this causes the opening and shutting of the valves of the diaphragm, everything that has been said in the mouthpiece is reproduced with startling accuracy. The explanation having been concluded, the operator said slowly and distinctly in the mouthpiece:

Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York;
And all the clouds that lowered upon our house,
In the deep bosom of the ocean buried!

Hip! Hip! Hurrah!!! Three cheers for General Grant! Hoop la! Ya hoo!

The cylinder was then reset, and the machine repeated the words in precisely the same tone, causing shouts of laughter from the spectators.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

The Louisiana Supreme Court seems to be biased against "reform."

Whittaker and Cronin should meet and mingle a sympathetic tear or two.

Let us hope that the lesson of the Southern mail contractors' exposure will be remembered and duly heeded.—Baltimore Gazette (Dem.)

It is reported in Washington that the Hon. Charles Foster is preparing a great speech defending the first year of Hayes' Administration. Mr. Foster is a big-hearted fellow, but we did not think him capable of this. Not long ago he was complaining to his friends that although he made Hayes President at a single man he had been appointed to office on his recommendation.—Cleveland Herald.

There is a loud demand for the substitution of an eagle for the buzzard on the 50 cent dollar. Why not make an enduring record of the recent controversy by putting on a gold bug?

Mr. Hendricks will not be inconsolable over the sudden collapse of the Louisiana persecutions. He has given the grand platform several vicious kicks himself and is just heartless enough to dance a hornpipe amid its ruins. With the grand issue out of the canvass, Mr. Tilden's principal mortgage on the party won't be worth a pinyune, and as Tilden's star goes down Hendricks hopes to see his go up.—N. Y. Tribune.

To those about to marry—the proposed Tariff bill contains a clause reading: "Matches of all kinds, 35 per centum ad valorem."

NEW MUSIC.

"I'll meet you, my Love, with a Kiss," is the title of a pretty song by H. P. Banks and has an appropriate companion in "My Sailor Love," by Diehl, "Two Little Lives," is a dainty ballad about a lark and a daisy, by Molloy. "Johnny Morgan Galop," by Fernald. Includes a air from the "Man in the Moon." "Norwegian Bridal Party," is a "Humoresque" for Piano, and "The Editor's Waltz," by Winterstein, may be commended to any of the fraternity in need of graceful exercise. All these pieces are recent publications by Oliver Ditson & Co.

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS, Second Session.

Senate

WASHINGTON, March 21.

Mr Coukling presented a petition of the citizens of New York city asking an appropriation to complete the catalogue of the National Library.

Mr. Hereford submitted a resolution declaring that the House bill to repeal specie resumption had been referred to the Finance Committee of the Senate on the 26th of November last; therefore, resolved, that said committee be required to report said bill to the Senate within one week together with their action thereon, if any shall have been made. He asked for the present consideration of the resolution; but objection was made by Morrill and it went over.

Mr. Chilton called up the bill to establish an institution of Lincoln and to provide a temporary Government therefore, which was discussed until the expiration of the morning hour, when the Senate resumed the consideration of the Pacific Railroad funding bill, and Mr. Tyler spoke.

At 5 o'clock the bill was laid aside, but no action was taken on it until after business.

Mr Garland from the Committee on Territories reported favorably on the Senate bill to amend the act of the Legislature of New Mexico passed over the Governor's veto to incorporate the society of Jesuit fathers of New Mexico. Placed on calendar.

Mr. Morgan opposed the second section of the bill. He thought the Government will rely upon the support of the people of the various localities to enforce its laws better than it would upon the appointments and disputes sent from Washington. The debate was continued by Matthews and Jones. No action was taken on the bill.

Mr. Davis of Ill., introduced a bill to confirm to the city of Chicago a title to certain land. Referred to the Judiciary Committee. Adjourned.

The bill provides that there shall be no appointments made from civil list Secretarys or clerks to commanders of vessels, but that a line of officers, not above the grade of a Lieutenant shall be detailed to perform the duties of such Secretaries. Clymer explained the provisions of the bill as it had been agreed to unanimously by the Committee on appropriations.

The appropriation recommended by it is $1 500 000 less than last year, including the deficiencies, and $4,000,000 less than the estimates for the next year. The clerk read the bill by sections.

Mr. Willis offered several amendments, all of which were rejected.

The provision appointing secretaries to Commanders from civil life was agreed to.

The provision directing the Secretary of the Navy to institute a rigid inquiry into the present system of civil establishments of the different bureaus of the Navy-yards was agreed to.

The provision of the bill appropriating $1,500,000 for the preservation of vessels of the stock at the Navy Yard, Washington, Hanford moved to increase the amount to $2 500,000, and spoke of the inefficiency of the navy.

Mr. Hyman opposed the amendment, calling attention to the use of appropriation of funds in the various naval departments during the past eight years, during that time there had been appropriated for the Bureau of Construction [illegible] repairs, $43,-000 000, and for the Bureau of Steam Engineering, $14,000,000, [illegible] have as a result a few hulks scarcely through all of which time are discredited [illegible] as a navy.

After further discussion the bill, unfinished in by Messrs. [illegible] Whitthorne and Harris, Mr. Danford's amendment was rejected, and the Committee rose and reported the bill without any [illegible] amendment, and it was immediately passed by the House. Adjourned.

NEW YORK, March 21. The correspondence between our Government and England relative to the appointment of the late Fisheries Commission has been sent to the Senate in response to Mr. Blaine's resolution. The papers show that Mr. Delfosse himself was not aware of the objections against him, but that the British Government, after compounding Delfosse twice and knowing the objection of the United States allowed the Austrian Ministry at their own Court to nominate him, entirely failing to reveal to said Ministry that objections had been made to Delfosse, but the British Cabinet gave, by telegraphic assent to the nomination. Secretary Evarts under these circumstances could offer no further objections, as Delfosse was known to be an honorable man.

Our National Credit—Large Sales of Bonds

LONDON, March 21. The Times financial article says that United States bonds continue to be bought for American account, and their price is maintained, but sales by English holders, corporate and individual, continue, and are sometimes of very large amounts. The fear of the silver bill has also away, but the people now begin to dread what may follow, and the prevailing and wide spread feeling that if the American experiments on their system then had much better do so with the debt held at home than in English hands. The people still threatens and are more likely to continue while so much that is cangerous seems to surround United States national finance.

The Great Walking Match America Ahead.

LONDON, March 21. In the International pedestrian contest O'Leary at 11 o'clock this morning was 10 miles ahead of all competitors and in excellent condition.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon O'Leary had scored 320 miles; Vaugan 315; Brown 305; the others were considerably behind. Vaughan has to-day kept up an almost steady trot and is now looking to O'Leary. Blood is doing remarkably well, and looks very fresh. Corkey is now believed out of the race. O'Leary receives much encouragement from spectators but nothing seems to change his steady stride.

At midnight O'Leary had walked 373 miles; Vaughan 369; and Brown 357.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

No Important Change in the Situation —Evacuation of Turkey.

LONDON, March 21. A despatch from Vienna says that according to the treaty of San Stefano, the evacuation of European Turkey, except Bulgaria, must be completed within three months after definite peace, and a portion of the Russian troops may embark on the shores of the Black sea. Under these conditions, that the Russians are now beginning to march their troops in the direction of Constantinople, so that they may begin operations, as Russia has insured herself the right, or at any rate the possibility of having a portion of her troops always around Constantinople until the final settlement is signed.

Gen. Kalitch Dead.

LONDON, March 21. A despatch received at St. Petersburg officially announces the death from typhus fever, of Gen. John Josis Melikoff Commander of the Russian army in Asia Minor.

The British Fleet.

LONDON, March 21. In the House of Commons this afternoon Sir Stafford Northcote stated that there were now four iron vessels of the British fleet near Constantinople. The iron-clads passed through the straits under a protest from the Turkish Government, but the English Government saw no reason against keeping the ships in their present position.

GERMANY.

A Cabinet Crisis—Political Gossip.

LONDON, March 21. A despatch from Berlin says Bismarck's bill separating the Railway Department from the Prussian Board of Trade and appointing a special Imperial Minister for Railways will probably be introduced in the Reichstag today. It is believed the bill will not pass; but some members intend to take the opportunity of debate on its first reading to question the Ministers regarding existing Cabinet crisis. There is some talk of a dissolution of the Reichstag and an attempt to carry a new election on Bismarck's personal strength.

Cabinet Appointments.

The Standard's Berlin despatch says it is reported that Count Stalberg Wernigerode at the request of the Emperor, has accepted the Vice Chancellorship, and also the Vice Presidency of the Prussian Ministry. A credible report asserts that the Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm will be appointed the Emperor's substitute in Alsace Lorraine and reside there temporarily.

ITALY.

The New Cabinet.

LONDON, March 21. A despatch from Rome to the Pall Mall Gazette says that King Humbert will recall Signor Cairoli to-night, for the latter to submit a new Ministry, which it is believed will be constituted as follows: Signor Cairoli, President of the Council; without portfolio; Count Corti, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Signor Zanardelli, Interior; Bruzzo, War; Doda, Finance; Delanelis, Public Instruction; Bascarini, Public Works; Martini, Marine; Signor Conforti, Justice. It is understood that the King will consent to the dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies.

FOREIGN NEWS.

THE FISHERY AWARD.

What the London Times Says.

ENGLISH BLUSTER.

BARKING DOGS NEVER BITE.

GREAT BRITAIN.

TORONTO, Mar. 21. The Globe's London special says the Times editorial on the fisheries award, says: It is unfortunate for the good fame of the States, that, at a moment when the financial policy of Congress has awakened grave suspicions and anxieties in Europe, some American politicians of considerable importance and notoriety, display another phase of the repudiating spirit in opposing the payment of the award. The reckless language of Blaine and Butler is not only throwing discredit on the country, but damaging the system of settling national disputes by arbitration. No country henceforward will be willing to refer claims to arbitration, if the decision of the arbitrators is liable to challenge by the unsuccessful party. This is as plain as that American credit will be severely shaken if they refuse to abide by the award. It will be readily argued that the Government which seeks to evade the consequence of the reference to the tribunal, chosen with its full knowledge and free consent, is not likely to be scrupulous in maintaining the obligation of inconvenient contracts with foreign creditor. It would be a misfortune unqualified for the States to provoke the indignation of England and all the civilized world by a refusal to pay an indisputable claim. The questions considered by the commission are such that only those who mastered the whole case, perhaps only those present at the sittings of the inquiry, have any claim to pronounce an opinion. The American case, put before Commissioners was most ably, completely and fully heard.

We take it for granted, therefore, that the amount of the award is reasonable. If it seemed to Americans unduly large, self-respect and regard for principles of arbitration ought to have restrained in expression of impatience. Attempts at evasion and cavils upon the impartiality of Delfosse are of a piece with the spirit of the delusions which has attempted to force an interpretation of an unanimous award. We hope and believe that Mr. Blaine will not be able to get the Congress of his countrymen to support him in a refusal to pay the award and to stamp the American policy with the double discredit of meanness and feebleness.

THE DEXTER MURDER.

The Prisoner on the Train—Crowds at Bangor Spectators—Great Excitement at Dexter—Fears of Lynching.

Detectives Wiggin, Heald and a New Haven Detective arrived at Dexter last evening with Jasmine Hope, alias James Watson, who was arrested in Connecticut on charge of being one of the Dexter murderers. Hope is a medium sized man with red hair and beard and a villainous looking eye. He was fastened to Detective Wiggin by means of shackles, one of which was on the Detective's left leg and the other to the prisoner's right leg. The train was boarded at every station along the road by large crowds of people, all of whom were anxious to see the prisoner. And as soon as the train stopped the car would be overrun with as many of the crowd as could get in. The excitement at Dexter is intense and grave apprehensions are felt for the safety of the prisoner if he is identified, as one of the murderers.

Death of Col. Amos B. Treat, of Frankfort.

FRANKFORT, March 18, 1878.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

The sudden and unexpected demise of Col. Amos B. Treat of this place, has cast a gloom over the entire community. Tuesday morning, the 12th inst., he was in good health as usual, and was attending to town business in the forenoon, and went to his home about 10½ o'clock; and at 11 o'clock he had a slight attack of apoplexy, from which he rallied and was quite smart in the afternoon. At 11 o'clock, Tuesday night, he had a shock of paralysis, and for some three hours he was a terrible sufferer; but as soon as the shock had completed its dreadful work, he rested comparatively easy the most of the time up to his death, which took place Friday morning at eight o'clock. His left arm and side, and both legs, and his bowels, were thoroughly paralyzed, and a few moments ere his death, he had a shock in the right side of his face which closed all earthly scenes to him. Col. Treat was born April 17th, 1808 consequently was nearly seventy years of age at the time of his death. He was the son of Ames Treat and great grandson of Lieut. Joshua Treat, who settled at Fort Point in the year 1750, and was the first actual white settler on the Penobscot waters. Lieut. Treat came down from Boston in a ship, with Gov. Pownal, loaded with Government stores for the Fort, in May, 1760 I think, and was an officer in Fort Pownal, and is the great ancestor of nearly all the Treats in Maine. The subject of this notice commenced business in this town in 1828, and up to 1847, was one of the most enterprising merchants in this village, being identified with all its business interests and otherwise, interest to its growth and prosperity. In the year 1847, he went to Boston and formed a partnership with Silas F. Peirce, (a brother of the late W. T., and H. Peirce of your city), and went in to the ship chandlery business on Commercial street. He remained two years, doing a successful business, and in 1849 he retired to Frankfort and formed a partnership with George W. Parker, under the firm name of Treat & Parker, which firm name was legion then, on account of the old firm of that name, having been a power and sway in the palmy days, when business here, such as few concerns could, or did, in those days; but when financial embarrassments overtook the great and enterprising firm of Upton & Adams of Castine, the old firm of Treat & Parker went down with them, being heavy endorsers for said firm; and it was a crushing blow to the inhabitants of this and entire town at that time, as they were doing an immense business. Many of the present inhabitants of this town, well remember the good old days of Treat & Parker, and many is the anecdote I have heard, in connection with this old firm; and it was the most palmy age of old Frankfort, when they were in business here.

The senior member of this firm, Oliver Parker, moved to your city in 1838, and died in Nov., 1861. His remains were interred at Mt. Hope, and I dare say, many of your inhabitants will remember him, for no one who was acquainted with him, could well forget him; for he was a bold man, an lover with great natural ability and originality; and his remarks oft times were sarcastic and severe. The junior firm of Treat and Parker, the subject of this notice, who was senior partner, commenced building vessels soon after forming partnership, and carried on shipbuilding till 1858, when they began to meet with reverses, and lost heavily in navigation, and gave up business about the year 1859, since which time Col. Treat had not done much business on his own account. He was Colonel of the Maine Militia for many years, and served in this capacity with ability, and made a fine commanding officer; and it was here he received his appellation of Colonel, and by which he has always since been designated. Col. Treat had a fine physique, was bland in manner and prepossessing in appearance; and was a man endowed with excellent ability, both natural and acquired, and had he been circumstanced in life, where his talent would have been drawn out, he would have rose to eminence and "made his mark" in this world. He was possessed of a warm heart and an independent soul; social in his feelings, a kind neighbor, and a good friend. He had no vindictive feelings toward any one, and in days gone by, when Providence smiled on his labors, and his garner and larder were well stored, the supplications of the needy poor at his door were always answered, and his father, mother, in their infirmity and declining years, found in him a son whose kindness and generosity knew no bound; and all the members of his father's family found the benevolent hand of this brother, open for and wide when in adverse circumstances. "The God of the widow and fatherless" will give peace to his ashes, I believe. Col. Treat was twice married; to his first wife, Ann Maria Peirce, (daughter of Bailey Peirce). December 6th, 1830, and she died June 1 th, 1837; and to his second spouse, Caroline A. McIntire, (daughter of Theodore B. McIntire, and sister of Mrs. Capt. Henry Hill, a resident of your city), January 21st, 1840, who now survives him, and two children, a son and a daughter; the son residing in Boston, the daughter here. May the hand of a kind Providence assist them in their sad bereavement, and may they always find "peace and plenty" in store for them. The funeral took place Sunday, P. M., at the Union Meeting House and was largely attended. The sermon was preached by Rev. T. B. Tupper, (Methodist) of Winterport, from the text in Isaiah, chap. 64, and 6th verse—"And we all do fade as a leaf."

Yours truly,

FRANK, CORT.

CRANBERRY ISLE ITEMS.

MR. EDITOR:—Dick Spratt & Co., variety show recently gave an entertainment at school house No. 1, consisting of slight of hand, ventriloquism, comic songs, dances etc., which were very good of the kind, notwithstanding the great disadvantage of their being no suitable place here for such performances, and highly appreciated by the audience. All the parts were well acted, and "Alf Martz," as "Bone Soldier," "Clog Dancer" and character personator won great applause. We may be permitted to suggest however, that the profanity of expression on the part of the landlord and his company in the ventriloquist scene by Dick Martz, might have been profitably disposed with.

Cranberry Isles rejoices in an association called the "Cranberry Isles Debating Club," which discusses all sorts of questions, moral, political, scientific, and esthetical. A recent debate upon the question as to the ultimate disadvantage to the fishing interest, by the taking of fish by scenes was quite interesting and instructive, the disputants being quite at home on the subject. Captain Frank G. Spurling, a new debater, opened the question, speaking very effectively, with a full understanding of the subject. The President William P. Preble, closed the affirmative with an exhaustive speech, covering the whole ground of controversy, and reciting some very noteworthy facts in illustration of the remarkable decline in the fishing business of this section within a few years. Among other things he stated that within 30 years, he had counted as many as 280 "jigger and ticket catchers," at a time going out of the three harbors, Cranberry Isles, South West, Harbor, and the adjoining; and in those days, the hardy fishermen found comparatively little difficulty in obtaining good livelihoods. The efficient Secretary of the Club Samuel C. Sanford, has entertained the audience from time to time with scientific exercises with dumbells; in the use of which he is an expert.

A pleasant episode of the winter was the presentation of a "Shaw's Family Record" nicely filled, accompanied with money towards the purchase of a suitable frame, as a New Year's gift from "Uncle Sabbath School" to their Superintendent Samuel S. Bunker, in recognition of his long and faithful services. The Superintendent while expressing his grateful appreciation of the gift, and the motives which prompted it, begged leave to refund the money contributed for the frame, to be applied to the use of the Sabbath school. The Cranberry Islanders deserve credit for their prompitude in repairing their meeting house, which lost its steeple and was unroofed by the tornado of Jan. 10th.

The school in district No. 3 term eight weeks, taught by T. A. Crabtree, of Franklin, an experienced and painstaking teacher, was closed Jan. 25th. Number of scholars in district 23, average attendance 40. Mr. Crabtree who has now taught five terms in the district, possess a happy faculty for explaining and simplifying and consequently interesting his scholars in their studies. The writing books particulary showed a marked improvement, while the studies of grammar and arithmatic received special attention. Mr. Crabtree also conducted an evening singing school which was also quite pleasant and successful. A school exhibition and concert at the close of the school furnished a very creditable evenings entertainment. All added their parts well, and put themselves on their best behavior, as to order. A song, entitled "Moonlight Walk," by Everett Lamond Spurling, accompanied by Mr. Crabtree on the violin, was excellently rendered; also dialogues, entitled the "Everlasting Talker," "The Wonderful Scholar" and "The Bound Girl" by Misses. Nellie A. Spurling, Carrie E. Stanley, Nellie Rosebrooks and Rose Stanley. "The Echo," by Mr. Crabtree and one of his little scholars, Smith Stanley was very natural by done, while "The Dunce Class" by the teachers and several young men, was quite amusing. Leonard J. Crabtree, son of the former, a painstaking and promising young teacher is thought successfully at Suttons Island; winning the general good opinion

School at Little Cranberry Isles, taught 14 weeks by Miss Annis E Fernald of Cranberry Isles, a Norman school student, well known as an experienced and successful teacher, was closed the 23d inst. Number of scholars about thirty. The new schoolhouse erected the past season at a cost of something over $600, was occupied by this school; and as a decided improvement on the old one, which has been converted into a workshop. Blinds and a bell are to be added. Little Cranberry Isles is becoming quite a pleasant and progressive little place, numbering about fourteen families. School in district No. 1, taught for the third winter by George Curtis Jr., of Brewer, closed March 3d. Term twelve weeks.

The dramatic entertainment by "Lizzie May Ulmer's Dramatic Company Monday, March 11th, at School house No. 1, was a success, commencing with the farce "Newly Married," followed by the humorous and pathetic drama "Andy Blake" and closing with the broad farce "Rich and Poor." Notwithstanding the, difficulties of performing in a place so ill adapted for such entertainments, the parts were well acted, and "Alf Martz" as "Bone Soldier," "Clog Dancer" and character personator won great applause. We may be permitted to suggest however, that the profanity of expression on the part of the landlord and his company in the ventriloquist scene by Dick Martz, might have been profitably disposed with.

THE SNOW-BIRD.

BY AUGUSTA MOORE.

Where doth the Snow bird sleep?
The wild and stormy night draws on apace,
Track falls the snow, knows it a sheltered place
Where it can snugly creep,
And nap and warm its dusky pinions for?
Where doth He hide His Snow-birds from the cold?

All day the dark winged flock
About my window hopping, chirping come,
Asking of Daisy but a seed or crumb
From her abundant stock.

The sheltered, pampered captive from the skies
Where Summer with perpetual verdure smiles,
Welcomes these wand'rers thro' the wintry storm,
And fain would dance with them her childish warm.
Right gladly, freely, all they task and more,
Peanle gives them from her ample store

With small, faint song,
With twitter, and with low and pleasant hum,
Hungry, and bold, alight and burn to they down,
Swept with the snow along

They frolic in the snow;
They dance with the white flakes,
And every small foot makes
In the pure covering its tiny track,
White stars and spangles deck each little track.

They frolic in the snow
That falls so thickly round,
O'er all the frozen ground
But do the gay ones know
Where they this fleeting night may hide away,
And all securely until morning stay

Close to the pines they creep,
In all the pines they peep,
Building strange Masonry with Daisy Snow—
And they entering grow,
And all safe in the long captive's charms, they sow

They are the shadows fall,
And to each other call,
And Birds make replies, and tries to go
Out to the lonely Bread,
With whom she shares her food,—
The little dusky elves that haunt the ends

Engerh, but to roam
She seeks the crystal pane!
O foolish little Bird, where troubles that fly?
Thy nest is safe and warm,
Sought shall my bird be harm,
But out in the cold snow she soon would die

Where do the Snow birds sleep?
Where doth He safely keep
His hardy, happy little winter spirits?
I know them by many sky,
But see they fly away?
Where doth He shelter them these stormy nights?

IMPROVING FARMS.

At the meeting of the Board of Agriculture at Warren, recently, discussions were had upon various topics.

The value of plaster as an application and also why so different results are sure from its application, was raised by a question from the audience. Dr. Allen said that his opinion was that the action of plaster was chiefly a collector of ammonia and a retainer of the same till it was carried into the soil where the plants may utilize it; and that the reason why so different results follow its use, or rather at times no results at all are seen, was that the soil where such application is made is of a nature that itself is doing just the same work which in other cases is done by the plaster.

Dr. North advocated in improving pastures, that mixed stock be put upon the soil. He had found that it was necessary to feed close a portion of the time on the pasture would become foul.

Wednesday afternoon an essay on grasses and forage plants was read by Samuel Wasson. Grasses are restricted to no locality, but are found over a wide attitude. In Maine there are 125 well known varieties of native grasses. Of these only thirty have been "tamed," and but few of these can be named by the common farmer. Fifty of them have an agricultural value. The grass crop is one of the greatest crops in the country. The average in Maine is three times that of no other crop, and is valued at forty-two millions of dollars.

A natural sod of grass is found to consist of a large number of varieties. In seeding to grass these may be too much seed applied, and on the other hand there may be too little. Enough should be applied to completely occupy the land. The varieties to apply should be governed by the soil. Timothy accommodates itself to a great diversity to soil. More, varieties one what is generally needed, rather than more seeds. Too deep covering should be guarded against, yet as a rule it requires some covering." Most seeds will germinate at the depth of one-half inch, while at two and a half nearly all fail.

Timothy is the most nutritive of the forage grasses. If the standard value of this be 10, then clover will be represented by 8. Chemistry may tell the constituents of the different grasses, but their feeding values are not so easily determined.

England cultivates no hundred and fifty varieties, while the United States only about twenty. Seven new varieties are worthy of trial. The popular notion that only a few varieties are worthy of cultivation is a notion of the past.

PLOWING IN MANURE.

For root crops there is no other way to be successful than to plow-in manure deep, for all ammoniacal evaporate notwithstanding there is a great loss of salt, lime, potash, etc., by leaching. But for small grains, grass and clover, experience has taught the most successful farmers in this vicinity that coarse manure applied as a top-dress ng is preferred to be spread on just before a heavy rain in the Spring. By observing how luxuriantly grass always grows around the edges of boards, old logs, stones, etc., we learn the fact that any soil is continually improving as long as it is covered. There is no doubt but what coarse manure spread on the surface of grass or grains, does more good on the principle of mulching than is lost by evaporation. Grass should be cut early, and the aftermath leave the after growth to rot and mulch the ground.

QUANTITY OF FERTILIZER PER ACRE.—A. B., Bangor, writes:

"Intending to get some of Ville compleh manure I have got the Mapes Company's directions for using, and they say: Quantity required for 40 bushels of oats, 300 pounds; quantity required for 40 bushels of wheat, 600 pounds; quantity required for 40 bushels of barley, 500 pounds; quantity required for 72 bushels of shelled corn, 1,000 pounds; quantity required for 300 bushels of potatoes, 600 pounds. "Is it necessary to use the large quantities specified in order to insure a good crop? How much wheat can be raised with 200 pounds to the acre, and how much do you anticipate raising to the acre with only 200 pounds applied? As I am a person of moderate means, I do not wish to be at unnecessary expense in experimenting myself."

REPLY. The quantities specified are in addition to the natural yield of the soil; that is, when the soil would produce without the fertilizer. In the case of the corn the benefit from 1,000 pounds of fertilizer is expected to be 75 bushels of grain. If the fertilizer costs $26, the corn will then cost about 35 cents a bushel, leaving the balance to go to pay for the labor. We do not advise such heavy dressing as you mention, and in applying these fertilizers we would use them in moderate quantities at first to test them and become used to them. We should look for 25 bushels of wheat per acre, and a good catch of clover and grass from the use of 200 pounds of the superphosphate named. It would be a matter for regret if injudicious use of these fertilizers resulting in disappointment, should lead farmers to distrust them. It must be remembered that they are concentrated, 100 pounds containing the equivalent of several tons of manure.—N. Y. Times.

It has caused the best writers in America to turn their attention to the task of giving delight and improving life to children.
